

MNCASA's Ten Ways Parents Can Prevent Sexual Violence

- 1) Have a child headed for daycare? Check out the "Nine Questions Parents Need to Ask When Selecting a Program for their Child" at Stop It Now!
www.stopitnow.org/ohc-content/tip-sheet-1
- 2) Have a son or daughter in the midst of a college search? Check out the SAFER website for helpful questions about sexual violence prevention on campus.
www.safercampus.org
- 3) Take the "birds and the bees" talk to the next level. Talk to your son or daughter about sex and healthy relationships. You can find printable talking points at Stop It Now! and age-appropriate conversation tips at the Jacob Wetterling Resource Center.
www.stopitnow.org/help-guidance/online-help-center/childrens-behaviors <http://www.gundersenhealth.org/ncptc/jacob-wetterling-resource-center>
- 4) Use movies and television shows to talk about healthy and unhealthy boundaries. Talk about how boys and girls are depicted and point out appropriate and inappropriate ways of interacting.
- 5) Be a caring adult in the lives of your children's friends. Get to know them and let them know you'll be a sounding board for them if they need to talk. It's important for kids to have other adults in their lives that they can trust.
- 6) Contact your local sexual assault resources program and ask them how you and/or a group of your colleagues could help them in their prevention efforts. Ask them for information about response and prevention to display around your workplace or neighborhood.
- 7) Ask your representatives to support violence prevention legislation.
www.leg.state.mn.us/ Click on Who Represents Me?
- 8) Ask your representatives for increased state and federal funding for rape crisis centers and sexual violence prevention.